REASONER CHAPTER TO HOLD THEIR FIRST SHOW

The American Hibiscus Society's newest chapter, the Norman Reasoner Chapter, formed less than a year ago is not losing any time - their first show will be staged in Palmetto on Sunday, August 30th.

Palmetto Federal Savings and Loan, through their friendly Public Relations Officer, Wallace Perkins, offered the use of the spacious lobby of their beautiful building situated on Palmetto's main street, 600 Eighth Avenue, which is also U. S. #41. Sunday August 30th, had to be the date for several reasons - most of the following Sundays were spoken for by other chapters up to early November - weather is apt to be bad in mid-November, - and Manatee county schools open August 31st, so vacationing parents are bound to be back in town and ready to attend the show.

The institution's Community Room will be used for entries and refreshments will be served to those exhibitors who arose at 4 a.m. to pick blooms (if you didn't get up until 7, they'll still have a cup for you). Several good friends from other chapters, notably Sunset and Ridge have offered their help in many ways in which the members of the new chapter are unfamiliar. Luncheon will be provided at The Inn for the judges, others may have the same meal at the contract price by contacting the chairman of the judges by 11 a.m.

The usual tags will be used. Tricolors and four silver trays will be awarded. President James Wallace urges all to come and get the chapter's first show off in a really big way.

Joe: We are having policeman cookies for desert.
Tom: Policeman cookies?
Joe: Yeah, copcakes.
